SATURDAY MORNING, APRIL 5, 1884

THE CALIFORNIA LEGISLATURE.

The California legislature met in extra session last week at the call of Governor Stoneman to grapple anew, by constitutional amendment, and by legislation of a comprehensive character, with the great problem which the people thought they had solved when they adopted the new constitution. It is just five years since the state accepted that aggressive instrument, after a canvass almost unparalleled for thoroughness and bitterness. If we take Governor Stoneman's word for it, the leading corporations have been able to defy the law and authority of the state and to defeat through the courts the measures which they could not defeat at the polls. To that extent, then, the new constitution has proved a failure. "The humiliating attitude," says the governor, "in which the state of California is placed must fill the heart of every public-spirited citizen with regret and mortification." The refusal of the railroads to pay their taxes has forced upon the executive and the people the questions whether the corporations are stronger than the power which created them and whether they can enjoy all the benefits of the government and at the same time evade all the obligations which civilized communities impose upon the beneficiaries of their laws. Some of the railroad organs criticised Governor Stoneman's message because he not only stated what he conceived to be the trouble but defined the remedy to be applied. But this was a mere cavil. The message was a strong and patriotic appeal for right and justice to the people. The legislature began its duties at once in a similar spirit. It was at first proposed to take away from the lieutenant governor the power to appoint the senate committees because he is a railroad man but that extreme measure was not resorted to. He did not take the hint, however, but made up the committees so as to defeat the object of the session, and the senate has since enlarged some of the committees so as to give the anti-monopolists the control. Several stringent measures against the railroads have already been passed, the most radical of which is to provide for the forfeiture of railway charters for refusal to obey the commissioners. The railroad monopoly as usual is making a strong fight against any interference with what it terms its vested rights. But the people for whom Gov. Stoneman speaks demand nothing unreasonable. The statement of Mr. Huntington that half the gross income of the Central Pacific is clear profit is believed by the people, and they regard such a profit as not simply unreasonable, but as robbery. They point to the colossal fortunes of Stanford, Huntington and Crocker as proof that the railroad which they control has been receiving an unfair proportion of the profits of the industry of the state. It is true, as Gov. Stoneman says, that the railroads have materially assisted in the development of the state, but they should not for this reason be allowed to exercise unrestrained power and oppress the people. History proves that unrestrained power is only limited and controlled by the opportunities for its exercise. If the development of the state and the accumulation of private fortunes shall go hand in hand with disobedience of authority and resistance to law, it would be far better that private fortunes were smaller and the development of the state less rapid.

DAIRY INTERESTS.

Statistics read before the recent convention of dairymen held in Sussex county, New York, show that it requires 15,000,000 cows to supply the demand for milk and its products in this country, and that a sum exceeding two thousand millions of dollars is invested in the dairy business in the United States. It requires the cultivation of over 60,000,000 acres of land to furnish food for the above number of cows. More than $200,000,000 is invested in dairy machinery and implements alone. The men employed in dairy occupations number 700,000, and 1,000,000 horses are necessary. The cows and horses consume annually 30,000,000 tons of hay, 90,000,000 bushels of corn meal and the same amount of oat meal, 275,000,000 bushels oats, 2,000,000 bushels bran, and 30,000,000 bushels corn, to say nothing of the brewery grains and questionable feed of various kinds that is used all over the country. It costs $400,000,000 to feed these cows and horses. The hired help engaged on the dairy farms of the country costs $168,000,000, or an average price of $20 a month per capita. The annual yield of the average cow is placed at 450 gallons, making the total milk product 6,750,000,000 gallons. The farmers' receipts for the milk, averaging it at 12 cents a gallon, amount to $810,000,000. Cheese and butter use up 53 per cent. of the milk yield. To make a pound of cheese ten pounds of milk are required, and twenty-seven pounds of milk make one of butter. The comparative nutritive qualities of milk are as three and one-half pounds to one pound of prime beef. A fat steer furnishes 50 per cent. of boneless beef, but it would require about 24,000,000 steers, weighing 1500 pounds each, to produce the same amount of nutrition as the 15,000,000 cows supply with their annual yield of milk.

The New York Evangelist (Presb.) presents an array of figures to show that Romanism is not holding its own with Protestantism in this country. It says: "In 1775 there was one evangelical church organization to each 1376 people; in 1780 there was one for each 520 people. In 1800 there was one evangelical communicant to 145 inhabitants; in 1880 there is one to each five people. As to church edifices there were in 1850 34,587 evangelical; of Roman Catholic, 1222. In 1870 the evangelical were 56,617; the Roman Catholic 3806. In the period from 1850 to 1880 (thirty years) the Roman Catholic priests increased 5100, the Presbyterian ministers increased 4276, the Baptists 11,428 and the Methodists 15,430 or 31,124 ministers against 5100 priests."

The Philadelphia Record speaks thus irreverently of its country cousins: The editors of democratic country newspapers in Pennsylvania have good hearts. If you go trout fishing with one of them and get into deep woods he will confide to you that he is against a protective tariff and that he never did believe congress had a right to lay taxes, except for the purpose of defraying the expenses of the government. But the moment he leaves the woods he no longer thinks it is safe to meddle with the tariff. He will howl for reform in a general way, but it is only under cover that he will go into particulars. This cowardice in the leaders of opinion keeps the democratic party in Pennsylvania undermost.

The Pioneer-Press says that "mainly through the zealous and indefatigable efforts of Bishop Ireland and his associates, a radical change has been effected in the habits, manners and condition of this portion of our population. From the utmost intemperate, disorderly and unthrifty, they have, as a rule, become among the most temperate, orderly, industrious, thrifty and moral class of the community. It is very rare now to find an Irish saloon keeper in St. Paul, and the Irish Catholics, probably contribute in proportion to their number fewer patrons of the saloons than any other part of the population."

It has become evident that the democratic party can enact no tariff bill. At the beginning of the session THE OREGONIAN confidently asserted that it would not, and thus answered those who claimed that it ought to act with the democratic party as a means of securing tariff reduction. The "horizontal" scheme is an abortive effort. It corrects no abuses, rights no wrongs, and strips no monopoly of its unjust advantages. It keeps all interests on the same relative basis as at present, and, if adopted, it would not only perpetuate but it would magnify the inequalities now complained of.

"GOOD MEN" IN POLITICS.

Noting that a number of the leading republican citizens of Chicago have issued a pronunciamento in favor of administrative reform and against political bossism, the Chicago Journal says: "It is very gratifying to note this evidence of an active interest in current politics among our most prominent, substantial and influential citizens. When that class of our people take hold of the machinery of politics in earnest there is hope for good government all. They have the power of control at any and all times if they will but exercise it." In a large measure this is true. The good people always outnumber the bad and purchasable. So if they should combine and be active, our officials would be nominated in a less corrupt way at least. What the country has to complain of, however, is a fact that every one must have noted, namely, that many of our "good men" are too "good" to take a hand in political matters. There is a sort of pharisaism and cant about this "good men" and "best people" business, which, in itself, does much to bring its professions into disrepute. But, be this criticism pass, there must after all be a limit to the good which the best people can do. They are for the greater part too intent upon the various callings of life—business, trade or the professions—to trouble about big or little offices which in the long run do not pay. Then again how do the best people know for whom to vote—how are they to tell the best man when they can by no means have either the time to look up his character or to become acquainted with him personally? Let the honest, conscientious voter look over the long list of names of those announced in the papers as candidates for office. How is he to select the best when he may not know any? The newspapers cannot instruct him, for the editor does not know everybody, or may not have excellent judgment; or possibly he may not be entirely candid in his opinions, and even may be willing to mislead. So, when we do not know of our own knowledge what men are most worthy of our votes we ask somebody, and that somebody may be a "boss." Let the good citizen sit down calmly and thoughtfully to make up his ticket without any suggestions, and the chances are that he will select as many poor names as good. It thus seems then the endeavors of the most conscientious citizens will oft prove abortive. Men therefore naturally look to leaders. The ignorance of even the best men, concerning candidates, makes them turn to the so-called "bosses." In many cases the ticket others make for us is better than the one we should have made for ourselves. We are by no means defending "bosses" in saying this, but rather pointing out one of the reasons why bosses exist. If the "best people" must either guess the fittest candidates or take their choice from some prompter, there is liability in either case to mistake; and so, if the most intelligent men of the community cannot determine what selections to make from a long list of candidates, must the ignorant man be condemned if he makes an equally bad choice?

Archaeologists of Europe are much interested over preparations now in progress for an attempt at diving for the Greek and Persian ships sunk in the great sea-fight at Salamis. Little is known of the great ancient galleys with their banks of oars. We have descriptions presented to us in the gossip of Athenaeus of two ships built by Ptolemy Philopater, and one built by Hiero, tyrant of Syracuse. But the description is wholly of the interior. We read of rooms in these ships with columns of Milesian cypress and capitals of gold and ivory, of marble statues of Venus, of purple hangings and exquisite carvings, of gardens with trees and plants, and all varieties of bath rooms. One of these vessels has forty banks of oars, but it is difficult to form an idea of what they looked like externally from these descriptions. The first attempts of the divers were wholly unsuccessful, but the enthusiastic projectors of this novel archaeological enterprise are confident that they will yet succeed; although more matter-of-fact scientists say that even if there were any galleys sunk off Salamis, they must be buried two hundred feet with sand, wash and sediment, by this time. It will be remembered that a few years ago, a French society began preparations for dredging the Red sea with a view to ascertaining whether any of Pharaoh's old chariots were to be found on the bottom thereof, but nothing seems to have ever been done beyond the preparations; the members were probably laughed out of it by their unbelieving fellow savans.

Ex-Governor English of Connecticut, a leading democrat, manufacturer and lumber millionaire, says that the tariff is of no earthly use to that state or any of the New England states. The practical demand for protection will hereafter come from the south and west and from the iron miners. The latter class, of course, want to continue amassing colossal fortunes at the expense of the rest of the country as long as possible. But their power is waning. He thinks that the country needs a moderate tariff, which shall bring to the country a sufficient revenue to meet the current expenses of the government and leave a small surplus to be applied to the slow extinguishment of the national debt. Incidentally, he would favor such protection as might be needed to foster the few struggling industries which may need it. He believes the democracy would win on a bold campaign for the reform of the tariff, and he would be one of the strongest men the democrats could nominate on this issue.

Charles F. Endicott of Boston, in speaking of the bill before the Massachusetts legislature to restore mortgage taxation, says the effect would simply be to make money difficult to obtain and to increase the rate of interest. He says that as a consequence of the repeal of the old law borrowers have obtained money at one to one and a half per cent. lower than previously, and that if the tax were restored it would be impossible to get money on real estate security at the present low rate—4½ per cent. Exempt credits from taxation in Oregon, and money for all purposes will be abundant—not, perhaps, at as low a rate for the present as in Massachusetts, but certainly as low as 6 per cent. Capital in abundance would seek the state for investment, and industries of every kind would spring into life.

On the occasion of the pope's refusal to receive the Bavarian prince and princess because they had first paid a visit to King Humbert, he said: "The vatican can neither now nor henceforth consent to receive Catholic princes who have been welcomed as guests in a place which, although confiscated by the Italians, is still the property of the papacy. The co-existence of two governments in Rome is inadmissible. The vatican declines to acknowledge any authority but one in Rome—the authority of the head of the church, Leo XIII." The pope would probably not dare to avow the same pretensions to temporal power in other countries, and it would be better for the church if he would abandon his ambition to govern the secular affairs of Rome. The attempt to assert temporal power now merely shows that he is destitute of it.

The court of appeals of New York, after taking the question under advisement for several weeks, has come to the conclusion that the judges shall wear silk gowns while sitting on the bench. This will not affect the wisdom or justice of their decisions.

While the Massachusetts legislature is considering various methods for the reform of the tax laws, the Springfield Republican sensibly suggests that it would be better to go back to first principles and adopt the income tax, which is by far the most just and philosophical of all taxes. Undoubtedly, it says, much property escapes taxation, but the best way to reach it is not the way of the assessors, who are wedded to hunting down what they call "tangible property," but to tax incomes, exempting those below a certain sum, and making a difference in the rate between income from services and income from capital, upon the obviously just ground that services are limited to the life of the one who renders them, while capital continues to exist after the death of the owner.

KELLY DISSATISFIED.

He Thinks Harmony Impossible—The Tammany Chief Speaking of the Democratic Caucus, Says: "I Don't Like the Looks of Things One Bit."

Mr. Kelly, the Tammany chief, was asked by one of his friends in New York recently what he thought of the caucus of the house democrats on the tariff, and he replied:

"I do not like the looks of things one bit. Ever since the war the democratic party has been [illegible]. They have heretofore been defeated in it by the power of [illegible] when the issue was [illegible] they [illegible] by throwing the [illegible] hands of the minority. I doubt if any [illegible]. The proper and only democratic position at this time was to take the moderate and sensible ground [illegible] taken by the Morrison bill and then stand to it without flinching. The democrats' idea was to lop off the excrescences of the Morrill tariff and to return, as far as practicable, to the Walker tariff of 1846.

"We had been living under the Morrill tariff for over twenty years, and during that time the duty on many things had been increased six or seven times, to meet the greed of protectionists. These were clearly monopolistic measures. According to the figures of Robert P. Porter, who is the patron saint of the protectionists, the average profit of manufacturers [illegible] in the country to-day is 17 per cent., while the average wage of the [illegible] is $1 15 per day. Now we come into the field with a moderate bill, having in view a step in the direction toward which the party has been tending for many years. Perhaps it was not perfect, and some minor [illegible] could have been introduced. For instance, the man who grows wool is entitled to the same amount of protection as the man who works the spindle.

"I take it that the Morrison bill was an honest attempt to carry forward the provisions of the tariff commission, with certain benefits and reasonable enlargements, to meet the views of a democratic majority. But when that measure was once matured, it should have been so firmly supported as to give the party the vantage ground of an honest and readily position, thoroughly consistent with the cardinal doctrines of its creed."

"Do you think, then, that harmony is impossible, and that the party position has been weakened?"

"So it seems at present. The moment you begin to temporize and trade and show the white feather, and weaken along the line, your adversary will crowd ahead in front and smite you on the flank. The Morrison bill sustained boldly and passed, would have brought the party before the country in the next campaign on a live issue, moderate, progressive and clearly defined. A defeat of the bill by the senate would have brought the issue into much sharper relief. The evidence that the democratic leaders of the reform movement are beginning to emasculate and amend the bill, by throwing one tub after another, is certainly discouraging from a party standpoint. The enemy will again, as in 1880, take the stump and charge cowardice and hedging, and claim that the party does not know where it stands or what it wants.

"Then they will press on the workingman the further argument that the democrats are merely toying with the question how to pass away the time; that they don't really intend to do anything till they get control of both houses, when they will make a spring at the throat of protection and strangle it with a free trade bill. The passage of the Morrison bill, so eminently fair and moderate in its provisions, would have spiked that gun by showing the democrats were sincere in committing themselves to gradual and not revolutionary changes. If they fail in this, the enemy will have the advantage of position, and they will be keen enough to make the most of it."

"Prohibition" in Maine.

Fairfield (Maine) Journal.

"Does prohibition prohibit?" is the standard heading in most of the Maine papers, followed by a short article agreeing that it does. But we must say our belief that rum is a scarce article in Maine, has been somewhat shattered by a trip to Lewiston on an excursion train last Saturday. We have never in all our experience seen so much liquor and so much drunkenness as on that occasion. Where did the "pizen" come from? On the train liquor was generously passed round by a large number; indeed, it seemed as though nearly every boy not out of his teens had a bottle of lager beer or whisky, and before the train had hauled out of Lewiston a free fight was going on in one car, while a crowd of boys kept up dancing and vulgar songs in another car. We were very much surprised at this condition of things, and this case may be an exception in Lewiston. We visited five saloons in company with another newspaper man, and saw men drinking. It may have been beer and it might have been sweetened water. We merely noticed that everybody was awfully dry and drank as though they never expected to strike another claim so rich. In conclusion we would say that prohibition does prohibit when there is enforcement.

Over-Cautious Democracy.

New York Evening Post.

The democratic party has suffered for twenty years from its unwillingness to go in for victory. Its aim in all its battles seems to be to avoid getting badly hurt. It appears to be suffering from this unwillingness still, if we may judge from the action of the caucus. It would like to do something about the revenue, the revenue being the great question of the day, but it desires that whatever it does shall not be too noticeable or offend anybody.

List of Men Who Voted in Portland Thirty-two Years Ago.

RECORD OF THE SECOND MUNICIPAL ELECTION.

Of 217 Voters in 1852, Twenty-Seven Living in Portland at this Time—The Dead and the Unknown.

Thirty-two years ago to-day, viz.: April 5, 1852, the second city election was held in Portland. ... The names of those who voted on that day ... published below. They are taken from the original record now in the custody of the city auditor and clerk. The first city election was held April 7, 1851, and the municipal government organized one week later, but no list of voters was preserved. In the spring of 1852 there were cast 217 votes. A. C. Bonnell was elected mayor over ... by a majority of 14. S. S. Slater was elected recorder without opposition. Five councilmen were elected, receiving the following votes: ... The election was held at the schoolhouse situated on ... The judges were Hugh ... R. Thompson and Shubrick Norris; clerks W. S. Caldwell and S. S. Slater.

Within the week past THE OREGONIAN has endeavored to learn how many of these voters are dead and where they died; how many are living and their whereabouts. This has been accomplished by presenting the list to several pioneers and checking off the names one by one. Memory, particularly when it has to run back twenty or thirty years, is not always accurate, and there may be a few errors, but in the main the information is correct.

In going through the list a strange fascination presents itself to any one familiar with the characteristics of such of these pioneers who are still remembered, and yet one hesitates through the injunction to speak only good of the dead. It would be an interesting record, but hardly within the limits of newspaper columns. Readers of THE OREGONIAN throughout the Pacific northwest who came to the coast before 1860, and many who came later, will undoubtedly scan the list closely. It will furnish food for reminiscences without number. Every pioneer, almost unconsciously, will make his estimate of the men whose lives are now recalled by the barest mention, and will study the causes leading to each man's success or failure.

Surprise will probably be expressed at the absence of a number of names which have become noted in the professional, business and political world. Several men prominently identified with Portland's progress, who came to the territory before 1852, were not in the city, or did not happen to vote on the day of which this is the anniversary.

This is the last of the days of grace allowed liquor dealers for taking out license. As there were 150 liquor licenses issued last quarter and only about twenty have been issued this quarter, it is probable that the auditor will be kept busy to-day. Any person selling liquor after to-day without a license is liable to arrest and fine.

The engagement is announced at Fort Clark, Texas, of First Lieutenant Theodore H. Eckerson, of the 19th United States infantry, son of Theodore J. Eckerson, quartermaster of United States army, and Miss Eleanor Armour, of Washington, D. C., niece of Brevet Colonel R. F. Bernard, major 8th United States cavalry.

ANDREW ROBERTS.

This old reliable clothing, tailoring and hat store, at the corner of First and Alder streets, is one of the best and oldest in Portland. The effort of the proprietor at all times has been to keep in stock a kind of goods that may be safely recommended as first-class. Mr. Roberts has perfected arrangements with eastern manufacturers by which he has selected material put into all his ready-made clothing, and the best of workmen only are employed in the production. He goes east about the first of May to buy cloths and superintend the manufacturing of the same. In this way all of the ready-made clothing of this store is equal to custom-made goods—in fact, they are really custom-made goods, the only difference between them and the goods produced by a tailor is that they are not made by measurement. But having a very large stock of all sizes and grades of goods the customer can be fitted to his exact measurement as well as if ordered from a tailor. In addition to this Mr. Roberts has a first class cutter and tailor in his own employ, who will make up suits to order and correct measurement. In the hat department Mr. Roberts has a full supply of the latest styles. So in the furnishing department this store has facilities for obtaining these goods at low prices for an extra quality of goods that are unexcelled in this city. Mr. Roberts has just received a large importation of goods in all lines, that are elegant, stylish, desirable and good in all respects. Mr. Roberts is a man of fine business habits, and carefully culls his employes for their adaptability in his line of business.

The state was represented by George Washburne, of Eugene, acting district attorney, and J. W. Rayburn. The defense was represented by Judges Burnett and McFadden, of Corvallis, Ben Hayden of Yamhill, and Judge Strahan of Albany. The case was hotly contested, the state relying on circumstantial evidence. Over 100 witnesses were subpoenaed, including about two-thirds of the Alsea valley and a large number from Independence. The case was given to the jury at 10:30 A. M. Thursday, and at the opening of court at 1 o'clock they returned a verdict of not guilty, and the prisoner was discharged.

How to be Beautiful—use Enameline.

The Daily Oregonian.

SATURDAY MORNING, APRIL 5, 1884.

NEWS OF THE NORTHWEST.

Washington Territory.

A German immigration bureau is to be formed in Seattle.

The indications are that the severe winter has damaged many of the fruit trees in Klickitat and Wasco counties.

Wednesday evening twenty-five immigrants arrived at Walla Walla. It is their purpose to settle in the Walla Walla valley.

Lorenzo Sweet, a Skagit river pioneer, died at his home in Skagit valley, last week. He was 56 years old, a Michigander by birth, and had a wife but no children.

Farmers about Walla Walla complain that the grain this spring does not look up as favorably as it did last season at this time. This is accounted for by the backwardness of the winter.

Quite a number of farmers in both Klickitat and Wasco counties will put in considerable corn this season. Besides being a valuable crop it will leave the ground in excellent condition for grain in the fall.

There are at present in the hospital at Seattle about seventy patients, forty of them being provided for by the various counties, which send their sick to this institution. The remaining thirty are private patients.

The report of the police judge of Walla Walla shows that there were twenty-nine arrests made by the police during the month of March. Of this number twenty-six were convicted and three acquitted. The total number of fines assessed was $271; fines collected, $141; served in jail, $130.

South Pine creek correspondent of the Goldendale Gazette: The weather is perfectly lovely and our farmers are gallantly improving the time plowing and sowing, preparatory to future reaping and mowing. There is a great amount of farming going on, and there will be a great amount of new land plowed in this community.

A deck hand named Arnold Sorenson, working on the steamer Washington, was very severely injured Thursday, near Seattle. It seems that the steering gear became entangled in some manner, and a number of the men were sent back to arrange it. While engaged in this work, Sorenson was caught in the wheel and several of his ribs broken. He also received internal injuries.

The five Chinamen captured near Point Roberts on Sunday last by a special customs officer were brought before Allen Weir, U. S. commissioner at Port Townsend, Thursday morning, and upon examination were found to be illegally within the United States, whereupon they were remanded to the custody of Collector Bash, to be by him returned under direction of the president to British Columbia, from whence they came.

The Atlanta district school house, near La Conner, was totally destroyed last Sunday evening. As there was no fire in the building since the dismissal of school the previous Friday afternoon, it must have been set on fire by some dastardly wretch, but what motive prompted the incendiarism is not clear, except that complete harmony does not exist among the people of that community in reference to school matters. The school house had only recently been built, entirely by private subscription.

Goldendale Gazette: Mrs. McKinney, the aged woman who died last Sunday, has for years lived with her daughter, Mrs. Caldwell. Her exact age was not known, but she well remembered many things that occurred several years before the beginning of the present century. She had been a member of the Christian church for more than three-quarters of a century, and had actively and extensively practiced medicine for forty years. Her family crossed the plains in 1843, and for many years lived in Yamhill county, Oregon. Her life was a checkered one and its story would make a history in itself.

The editor of the Dayton Chronicle has recently interviewed several farmers about the crop outlook for 1884 and they all state that fall grain never looked better, while a considerable acreage of spring grain is being sowed at the present time. The cool nights do not allow the grain to grow so rapidly as it would if the weather was warmer, yet the chances are good for a heavy yield this year. It is not likely that the high prices of last fall will prevail, unless something should turn up that is not expected now, but with the increased acreage the aggregate amount of money brought into the country by the sale of grain will be fully as much if not more than last year.

Eastern Oregon.

Eastern Oregon farmers are advertising for men to plow.

In Baker county the water season promises well for the placer miners, there being more snow in the mountains than last year. Grain and hay are plentiful and cheap.

An immense wool and storage warehouse is being erected near the old mint building in the Dalles. It will be 300 feet long, 50 feet wide and 18 feet to the ceiling. They have engaged a wool grader whose grade mark will be accepted in any wool market in the Union. They will perhaps handle nearly all the wool in that part of the country.

Western Oregon.

Seven dwelling houses and three barns will be built the coming summer in the country round Halsey.

An Albany exchange says: Every week adds to the splendid prospects for a large crop of wheat next fall.

The total amount of school fund in the hands of the Polk county treasurer is $12,301 93. The number of persons of school age, as reported by the district clerks, is 2978, making the amount per capita $4.593.

Grain sowing in some portions of Polk county is made late on account of too frequent showers. Farmers are anxious for better weather and judging from present indications we think their anxiety will be appeased.

Polk county democratic convention will be held at Dallas on Tuesday next, the 8th inst. The republican county convention of Polk will be held at Dallas on the 22d of April. The republican county convention of Benton will be held at Corvallis on the 26th of April.

Following is the March apportionment of school funds, and number of school children in Linn county, and number of districts, as reported by Superintendent Moses: Number of districts, 96; number of males, 2743; number of females, 2761; total number of children, 5504; amount of apportionment, $11,188 50; rate per capita, $2.033.

A Brownsville correspondent, writing to an Albany exchange, says: We hear that the surveyors of the Yaquina railroad are trying to find a suitable pass through the Cascade range east of us, up the Santiam. We also hear that James W. Swank, who lives near here and is well posted with regard to these mountains, knows of a lower and better pass on the Calapooia, than can be found on the Santiam, and, such being the case, it ought to be brought to the notice of the engineers of this road.

Idaho.

There will be a meeting in Silver City on April 21, of the Idaho Stock Growers' Association.

The preliminary examination of Fred Woodworth, charged with the crime of murder, at the Junipers, in this county, in December last, has been concluded at Silver City. The evidence adduced was of such character that Hon. J. H. Wickersham, probate judge, before whom the examination was held, committed the defendant to the custody of the sheriff without bail. E. W. Gault, the only eye-witness to the shooting, produced by the prosecution, was held in the sum of $5000 to appear as a witness before the next grand jury.

The bridge for the Oregon Short Line, which spans Snake river, when completed will be an iron truss bridge, supported by two abutments and three channel piers of substantial masonry. The length of the spans are each 183 feet 4 inches and the hight of the tiers between masonry and base rail 31 feet 8 inches. This will be what is called a deck bridge, the rails being laid over the truss instead of through it, as is usually the case. The outside course of masonry consists of dressed sandstone, supplied from a quarry at Birch creek, Or., opened by J. R. Patton, contractor. The rubble is found in the Burnt river canyon and other points adjacent to the bridge-site, where suitable rock is found. The total hight of the bridge above low-water mark will be fifty-seven feet, and, as may easily be supposed, will form a very imposing structure when completed. Work on the bridge has been going on now for more than four months, and is expected to last three months longer. The cost to the company in wages alone thus far can have been no less than $25,000, besides large amounts paid on rock and other contracts.

Montana.

It is reported that two men and a mule were drowned on the Thompson Falls trail a few days ago while going into the mines.

Fred Schiplin, the man who attempted to commit suicide near Bozeman the other day, is still alive and there are hopes of his recovery.

The Marias ferry boat was carried away by ice last week, with four men on board. The boat was recovered seven miles from Coal Banks by a detachment of soldiers sent out by Lieutenant Baldwin.

Of the two men who were wounded in a fracas at Glendale a few days ago Shepard is getting worse, suffering convulsions frequently, and Fisher has erysipelas in his wounds, but is getting along well.

Two horse thieves drove off J. A. Seifreid's band of horses from near Belt Butte, Chouteau county, last week. There were between eleven and fourteen of the animals. Some of them belonged to Judge Tattan of Benton. At last accounts they had not been recovered.

Recently a terrible affair took place at the house of George N. Nelson on Lone Tree creek, three miles north of Wolf Butte. It seems that George N. Nelson had been to the mountains after wood, arriving back at the house about 5 o'clock. His wife was preparing supper at the time. He said he had lost his coat somewhere, and was going back to find it, at the same time opening his pocket knife to eat. His wife told him to wait a minute as supper was nearly ready and they would all eat together. He got sulky at these words, and while she was putting the dishes on the table his passion seemed to increase. Finally he made a remark to the effect that he would finish her, at the same time darting toward her with his knife. She rushed out of the door. He then turned toward Hanna, who was standing near the window, calling him a G— d —, and saying that he would finish him. Joe Hanna told him to stop but he did not do it, and Hanna raised his revolver and fired. This shot did not stagger him, and Hanna fired again, when Nelson fell dead on the floor. Hanna immediately gave himself up as a prisoner. The deceased, George N. Nelson, is an old timer, well known. He formerly lived in the Gallatin valley, afterwards on the Shonkin, near Benton, when he removed to his present residence. John W. Hanna, who did the shooting, is well known around Fort Benton and Barker, having been about the Belt mountain district for the last eight years or more.

ELECTION OF OFFICERS—PIONEER NO. 1.

The annual meeting and election of officers of Pioneer Engine Co. No. 1 occurred last evening, the election resulting as follows: President, A. H. McEwan (re-elected); recording secretary, H. H. Holmes; financial secretary, Jno. B. Pape; treasurer, W. B. Welch (re-elected); foreman, J. N. Sturm; first assistant, Henry Meyer; second assistant, Eugene Ferguson.

The following appointments were made:

Board of trustees—Fred. Kindorf, D. B. Dartel and H. H. Kiessling.

Auditing committee—William Underhill, T. J. Matlock and E. C. Wheeler.

Investigating committee—T. C. Smith, George Livesle and W. W. McGuire.

Twenty-three votes were cast. In the election of foreman J. N. Sturm received a majority of one vote against Henry Meyer. Eight propositions for membership were received. With the new blame a new life seems to have been infused into the company.

"BLACKHAWK" GOES TO JAIL.

The case against W. I. Mason, alias "Blackhawk," for using profane and obscene language toward Robert Caples at St. John's came up in Justice Sliker's court yesterday morning. Defendant demanded a jury, but the case was easily proven to their satisfaction by two reliable witnesses, none appearing for the defense. The defendant was fined $20, in default of which he was taken to the county jail for ten days. He endeavored several times to bulldose Constable Merrick into allowing him to escape while escorting him thither, but the constable was equal to the occasion. He has the reputation of being the foulest mouthed man in the country, and his fate is not regretted by any that knew him.

A CHILD'S LEG BROKEN.

Dr. C. H. Raffety was summoned late yesterday afternoon to attend a child, but eight months old, that had been thrown from a buggy and had its leg broken between the thigh and knee joint. The accident occurred on the Oswego Prairie road, near Lent's mill, and was the result of a runaway while the child was riding with its parents. The name of the parties could not be learned.

NOTES.

To-day is absolutely the last for paying city taxes to the city treasurer. After to-day the marshal will collect them, with costs added.

An evidently crazy man, who was scaring women and children throughout the city yesterday, was arrested by the marshal and lodged in jail.

Proposals for furnishing firehose to the city have been received from agents representing the Eureka, Maltese Cross, White Anchor and Test hose.

John Scanlan, a saloonkeeper of Albina, has left for parts unknown, leaving sundry creditors to mourn his departure. Hotaling & Co. has attached the stock and fixtures for debt.

TRADE AND COMMERCE.

FRIDAY, April 4.

Overland receipts include 1 sks coffee, 120 cs canned meats, 225 cs 6 bbls 10 hf 30 kgs syrup, 1 bx prunes, 1 hf currants, 2 bxs 6 sks seed, 1 bx fish, 7 cs sardines, 12 bbls pork, 10 tcs hams, 230 hf bxs candles, 4 pks 41 tubs butter, 600 cs coal oil, 200 kgs nails, 1 cs cigars, 3 cs cigarettes, 181 pkgs tobacco, 250 bxs tin.

The Merchants' Exchange daily blackboards the numbers of the freight cars passing Helena and Wallula westward.

PRODUCE RECEIPTS—Past twenty-four hours: 2250 ctls wheat, 913 bbls flour, 230 ctls oats, 65 bls hides, 65 cs eggs. Also 850 bbls flour, 120 ctls bran from the eastern section.

FREIGHTS—The rate of the ship Hebron, previously reported, is 51s 3d to Hobson's bay. Grain freights continue inactive, with little prospect of early business.

WHEAT—Local markets dull, with no buyers above $1 50 for valley. Advices continue to note depression elsewhere.

OATS—The amount held by commission houses shows considerable reduction. Values are not affected, and remain rather weak at 47½@49c.

POULTRY—Stocks generally equal the request, values showing no change.

EGGS—Quoted 18@20c.

The Merchandise Market.

A good trade call is had with values unchanged, except as to sugars and Island rice. The former were reduced half a cent on the 1st. The advance in Island rice is due to increased demand from the east and light supplies. The advance in teas at New York has been fully 20 per cent within sixty days; notably in Japans, greens and Oolongs. This permits shipments from this coast and even from England. The chief sources of supply until new crop arrives is the stocks at distributing centers. Coffee shows some weakness. Central American is arriving more freely at San Francisco, the last steamer bringing 30,000 bags Costa Rica, Salvador and Guatemala. Grain bags are firmly held, the prospect for better prices being deemed excellent at this time.

To make shrimp and oyster curry you fry to a light brown in four ounces of butter, four young onions and a clove of garlic chopped small; add the juice of two limes; mix together until very smooth; one teaspoonful of cornstarch, two tablespoonfuls of curry powder, one tablespoon of chutney, and one-half cup of cream; put this with the onions, adding salt, pepper and cayenne. Stir this rapidly over the fire until it becomes very thick and pasty, say five minutes, being careful not to burn. Thin this with cream or milk to the consistency liked, then add a large cup of picked shrimps and as much oysters. If California oysters are used cook two minutes after it again boils; if eastern oysters, three or four minutes.

CANCER.

The experience in the treatment of Cancer with Swift's Specific (S. S. S.) would seem to warrant us in saying that it will cure this much dreaded scourge. Persons so afflicted are invited to correspond with us.

I believe Swift's Specific has saved my life. I had virtually lost use of the upper part of my body and my arms from the poisonous effects of a large cancer on my neck, from which I had suffered for 20 years. S. S. S. has relieved me of all soreness, and the poison is being forced out of my system. I will soon be well.

W. R. ROBISON, Davisboro, Ga.

Two months ago my attention was called to the case of a woman afflicted with a cancer on her shoulder, at least 5 inches in circumference, angry, painful and giving the patient no rest day or night for 6 months. I obtained a supply of Swift's Specific for her. She has taken 5 bottles, and the ulcer is entirely healed up, only a very small scab remaining, and her health is better than for 5 years past; seems to be perfectly cured.

REV. JESSE H. CAMPBELL, Columbus, Ga.

I have seen remarkable results from use of Swift's Specific on a cancer. A young man near here has been afflicted 5 years with the most angry looking eating cancer I ever saw, and was nearly dead. The first bottle made a wonderful change, and, after 5 bottles were taken, he is now about quite well. It is truly wonderful.

M. F. CRUMLEY, M. D., Oglethorpe, Ga.

UNDER LIP AND INSIDE OF CHEEK EATEN AWAY BY CANCER.

My father had an eating cancer for several years, which had eaten away his under lip and the inside of his cheek down to the bottom of his gums. We got some of Swift's Specific and gave him, and the effect has been wonderful—almost miraculous. The sores are all healed and he is perfectly well. Every one here said it was only a question of time about his death and his cure has created the greatest excitement in this part of the country. I hope you will publish about my father's cure, and send me some circulars to give to my friends and the afflicted.
